President Talks In South Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy was to fly to the troubled South today for a nine-hour, three-speech tour centered around a ceremony which the governor of Alabama also will attend.

Kennedy was to leave Washington at 10:45 a.m. EDT to fly to Nashville for the first speech. He then goes to Muscle Shoals, Ala. and from there to Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala.

At Muscle Shoals both Kennedy and Alabama Gov. George Wallace will attend a ceremony marking the 30th anniversary of the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA). The White House said Friday "there are no plans for a conference" between the two men on the racial conflict in Birmingham.

The White House was unable to confirm reports that Wallace would accompany Kennedy in the President's helicopter on the 35-minute flight from Muscle Shoals to Huntsville.

Wallace has called Kennedy a

Good Evening!

C.R.L. Batting for G.S.G.

Welcome showers.

Now watch the May flowers pop through and grass shoot up out of nowhere. And we'll have to get the mower out Monday or we'll never find our way to work.

Hats off to the Army, Navy, Air Force, Coast Guard and Marines.

Uncle Sam's military forces will flex its muscles today with gala Armed Forces Day programs right here in the Delaware Valley area. A nice place to take a ride on a dismal day and see just what this great country of ours has in the way of defenses.

And congrats to Sandy Oppenheimer.

The Courier-Times managing editor elected first vice president of the UPI Editors of Pennsylvania at the spring session in University Park. Let's make it president next year S.O.

Beauty on parade tonight.

Ten lovely young ladies will be shooting for "Miss Bucks County" in the beauty pageant at Neshaminy High School. Mary Ann Mobley, Miss America of 1959, will add to the beautiful setting which is turning into one of the county's blue ribbon productions.

Just as expected.

State Senate follows up the House action in passing five per cent sales tax in party-line vote. And with two cents a pack increase on cigarettes, guess we'll have to stick to the good old pipe.

Big day for Cooper Tuesday.

America's newest hero will address joint meeting of Congress after being received by President Kennedy. On Wednesday, he'll ride down Fifth Avenue in a ticker tape parade that only New York can do.

The track may be muddy at Pimlico.

But we'll string along with the Derby winner—Chateaugay—to repeat in the Preakness today. If it's wet the longshot players might have a field day, especially with something like Lemon Twist.

The time a man most appreciates the comforts of home is when his wife says, "Let's eat out tonight."

Isn't it strange how a boss with absolutely no sense of humor can come up with such funny answers when you ask him for a raise?

Go to church tomorrow.

U.S. Halts Relations With Haiti

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has interrupted diplomatic relations with Haiti as a gesture of "disapproval" of the dictatorship of President Francois Duvalier, officials disclosed today.

The action was taken Wednesday, the day the United States claimed Duvalier's term of office legally expired, but was not made public.

U.S. Ambassador in Port au Prince Raymond L. Thurston and his staff were instructed then to have no "formal" contacts with the Haitian government.

State Department officials said, however, the action was technically not a "suspension" of relations. They said the U.S. position remained flexible and contacts could be resumed at any time as though nothing had happened, if the need arose.

Officials said the U.S. action was not announced for two reasons: To be in a position to resume relations if necessary and because of fears that a formal announcement might result in diplomatic retaliation such as expulsion of Ambassador Thurston and his staff.

Officials said that actually there had been no contact either between the U.S. Embassy in Haiti and the Haitian government or between the State Department and the Haitian Embassy here since Tuesday night.

They would not say what would happen if the Haitian diplomats here requested an appointment at the State Department, but said this had not occurred.

U.S. officials claim Duvalier's

All-American Ernie Davis Dies At 23

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Brave Ernie Davis, the All-American football fullback who tried a career with the Cleveland Browns despite a killing disease, died today of leukemia.

The 23-year-old Davis, whose future seemed to be among the brightest in football, first was hit by a tired feeling while practicing with the college all-stars in 1962 following one of the greatest football careers in collegiate history.

Ernie was hospitalized and doctors did not tell him for some time that he had leukemia. For a while, it appeared the disease was arrested and he suited up with the Browns.

"It will be a very long time before we see another boy like Ernie Davis, not only as an athlete but as a man," President Arthur Modwell of the Browns said.

Modell said Davis apparently died without pain.

"No one but a nurse was present when death came," Modell said.

The husky Negro, the first of his race to win the coveted Heisman Trophy awarded by the New York Athletic Club to its college Browns in a major trade.

He was obtained from the Washington Redskins in exchange for fleet Bobby Mitchell as Washington, under pressure from federal authorities to have Negro on the team, took Mitchell who was an established star and popular with Washington fans.

Davis visited the Browns' office Thursday and told Modell he was going into a hospital for a few days.

Dr. Austin Weisberger, who had been treating Davis since the disease was discovered last July, said Davis died without discomfort. Drugs administered to Davis had brought about a complete remission in the disease last fall, but there was a flareup early this year.

Burial will be in Elmira, N.Y., Davis' home town since he was a youngster, early next week.

Davis probably was the most heralded football player ever to come out of college. He was the first Negro winner of the coveted Heisman Trophy and was signed by the Browns in January, 1962. The Browns gave him a three-year no-cut contract for a total of $65,000 plus a $15,000 bonus.

Davis had surpassed most of the records set by Jim Brown at Syracuse and was expected to add much to the Cleveland attack.

Investia, the Soviet government newspaper, Friday night reported "an atmosphere of fear and nervousness" at the Mercury control center because of the mechanical faults as Cooper began his descent.

But it found no fault in the actions of the astronaut himself. "Only thanks to his courage and self-possession, the cosmic flight was happily concluded," it said.

Glenn, who played an important role in Cooper's safe landing, arrived in Nagasaki, Japan today from his post on the Navy communications ship Coastal Sentry. It was from this ship

Iron Curtain People Praise Cooper's Feat

LONDON (UPI) — Praise for astronaut L. Gordon Cooper continued today from both sides of the Iron Curtain. In Tokyo, Japan prepared a welcome for America's newest space hero, a reunion that will be shared with thousands of admiring Hawaiians.

For Mrs. Trudy Cooper and her husband, the setting for their first family gathering since Cooper's record-setting 22.9-orbit flight will be a sentimental one.

Twp. Drops Botel Speller

Bristol Township schools will no longer have spellers authored by Dr. Morton Botel, Bucks County assistant superintendent of schools.

The school district will replace the Penn Valley Publishing Company's multi-level speller, the center of much controversy last year, with a new elementary school spelling text. Dr. Botel was co-author of the speller.

Robert P. Martin, district school superintendent, recommended the change after studying results of a six-month curriculum survey conducted by Paul McCool, principal of John Fitch School, and Donald McDae, principal of Ralph Waldo Emerson School. Twenty-two teachers and principals in the township were consulted in the survey covering grades two through six.

Dr. Botel's speller will be replaced by the "My Workbook" spelling series published by Lyons and Carnahan, Inc., of New York.

Collecting Royalties

A controversy arose last year when it was learned that Botel was collecting royalties on books being used within the county. Dr. Charles H. Boehm, state superintendent of schools, ordered a full-scale investigation.

Following the probe and an opinion by the state attorney general's office, Boehm said the practice should be allowed, if the school system was notified in advance that the text had been authored by one of its employees.

Wright Raps Mrs. Wandling

Bill Wright spokesman for the Republican Committee people of the 7th Ward Republican Club, took issue to statements made by Mrs. Wandling yesterday.

He stated that it seems odd that Mrs. Wandling, who still calls herself a Republican party worker, is once again speaking out alone against the express wishes of the vast majority of 7th ward Republicans.

Last year the Republicans of the 7th Ward elected, as their official representatives, six committeemen and women, Wright said.

Wright said that Commissioner Diehl was endorsed for election by the six Committeemen and women, since then Mr. Wandling has changed her mind, as she frequently does. Mr. Wright went on to say that at a subsequent meeting of the 7th Ward Club, Diehl was unanimously endorsed by the 35 people present. Mrs. Wandling was not present at this meeting, nor has she been to a club meeting for the past ten months, Wright said.

Pope's Health Concerns Kennedy, Trip Adjusted

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—President Kennedy's decision to visit Pope John XXIII next month instead of waiting until next year caused speculation today that his plans were based on reports of the 81-year-old pontiff's failing health.

Kennedy originally planned to confine his June visit to Italy to Milan, then to return next year, when Mrs. Kennedy will be able to travel, to visit Rome and presumably the Vatican.

But Pope John has seemed haggard and worn in recent public appearances, giving rise to reports that the stomach ailment that kept him in bed last fall has recurred.

There have been reports that he has cancer. The Vatican has never denied them, and the reports have been circulating again in recent days.

Silent on Speculation

Vatican sources had on comment on the speculation that the President may think it opportune not to wait a year for his meeting with the Pope. They said only that the meeting will be a "very important, very solemn affair."

Kennedy will be the third American president to meet a Pope and the second to meet Pope John. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had a meeting with the pontiff in December, 1959. Woodrow Wilson was the first president to hold such a meeting, with Pope Benedict XV in 1919.

But Kennedy's visit will be precedent-setting because he is the first Roman Catholic president of the United States.

The visit is believed certain to reopen the delicate issue of U.S.-Vatican relations. The United States has had no official contact with the Vatican since the resignation of Myron C. Taylor, who served here as the personal representative of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman until 1950.

Kennedy said in a magazine article "flatly opposed to the appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican."

"Whatever advantages it may have in Rome—and I'm not convinced of these—they would be more than offset by the divisive effects at home," he said.

Valid reasons for establishing relations might include the Pope's increasingly important role in the world before his election that he would affairs, and in the cold war in particular, and the Vatican's position as a center of information on happenings in the Communist world through its churches there.

But these reasons were not believed strong enough for the subject to be brought up, at least publicly, during the President's visit. Opposition on the grounds of church-state separation is believed too strong in the United States.

State Sales Tax Almost New Law

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The 5 per cent sales tax bill, riding easily on a wave of solid support, passed the Senate by a 27-23 straight party vote Friday to move within a few routine steps of becoming law.

The measure, giving Pennsylvania the highest sales tax rate among the 37 states imposing the levy, needs only House concurrence in Senate amendments and the signature of Speaker of the House W. Stuart Helm, R-Armstrong, before being sent to Gov. William W. Scranton. It is expected these moves will be completed May 28.

Also gaining final clearance by the same count Friday was a companion bill calling for a two-cent boost in the six-cents-a-pack cigarette tax. It too must return to the House for Helm's signature before hitting the governor's desk.

Both chambers are off next week because of the primary elections, but are due back May 27. The House has scheduled the concurrence vote for the following day.

One Per Cent Jump

The 5 per cent bill, which was the subject of four hours and one minute of Senate debate, raised the current sales tax by one per cent with the increase slated to bring in an extra $105 million for the state's fiscal 1963-64 operation. The cigarette legislation will account for $26 million.

Another $12.5 million — which would give Scranton $4 million more than he had asked for—is to come from a bill raising the liquor excise tax by 5 per cent, but this proposal has not yet cleared the House.

The 5 per cent sales tax, built around the same base as the current rate, was the end result of an original Scranton program which foundered when about half of the 109-member House GOP delegation opposed it. The governor, who had sought a half per cent increase in the levy with an extension to clothing and shoes, announced his acceptance of the plan when he learned of the certain death of his own legislation.

Pair Injured In 2 Crashes

Two drivers were injured in two separate accidents in Morrisville last night.

At 6:58 p.m., Bonnie Marie Randall, 16, of 115 Pennsylvania Ave., Morrisville suffered a lacerated knee when her car collided with one driven by Helen Warrell, 694 Latona Road, Morrisville.

Miss Randall was taken to Mercer Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Morrisville police said the accident happened at the Pennsylvania Shopping Center, off Trenton Ave.

Damage Estimated

Damage to each car was estimated at $100. Patrolman Clifton Morris, who investigated, made no charges against either driver, police said.

At 11:55 p.m. an eastbound car driven by Burton D. Colvin, 51, of 117 Waverly Place, Trenton, struck a girder on the Trenton Free Bridge.

Police said Colvin will be charged with reckless driving. He refused treatment for a knee injury, police said.

His car was totally wrecked, it was reported. Patrolman Maylon Cummings investigated.

Property Given For Library

Bucks County is getting property on Trenton Road in Fairless Hills to be used for public library purposes — courtesy of the Danherst Corp., Fairless Hills.

Mrs. Meredith Smith, executive director of the county free library, said yesterday the property, known as "Three Arches," was donated to the county by the corporation.

The library board will remodel a building on the land to make it operational. It will be open to all county residents. Mrs. Smith cited Edward R. Howley, Falls Township supervisor, as "instrumental" in bringing about the gift.

George Galbreath, vice-president of the corporation, also made the gift possible, Mrs. Smith said.

Bomb Epidemic 'Jolts' Montreal

MONTREAL (UPI)—Provincial police leaves were canceled today in the hunt for terrorists who "mailed" lethal bombs to the suburbs of Westmount. Five of the devices exploded in rapid succession Friday.

A sixth blew an arm off Sgt. Maj. Walter "Rocky" Leja, 42, an army explosives expert who was removing it from a mailbox. Five bombs found in other mailboxes were either deactivated or detonated safely.

The group responsible is believed to be the Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ), an underground band of French-Canadians who want the English speaking influence out of Quebec and "La Belle Province" made an independent nation.

To Offer Mass

Father Prabhu Prasad, (Right) of the Indian Missionary Society, who is seen here with Francis Cardinal Spellman after his ordination earlier this month, will offer his first Mass at St. Mark's Church, Bristol, tomorrow.

Called Off Job

Firemen Too Busy To Build House

Some firemen just can't get time off-even to build a new fire house.

William Penn Fire Company, of Hulmeville, is building a substation on Oxford Valley Road. It's about one-third complete.

Last night, for the second time since construction started — firemen were called off the construction job to answer an alarm.

A contractor's tar heating wagon, parked at the home of George Ashendorf, 34 Fieldstone Road, Forsythia Gate, Levittown, caught fire about 7:30 p.m.

The machine belonged to Frank Nolan, a Levittown roofing contractor, who was working on Ashendorf's house.

Firemen controlled the blaze in about half an hour. Damage, including that to lawn and shrubs, was estimated at $150. The flames did not threaten Ashendorf's house, it was reported.

The firemen were in charge of Cheston Wheeler, first assistant chief, who was working on the substation when the alarm sounded.

Two trucks and 15 men were dispatched.

After a brief speech at Redstone Arsenal, Kennedy will return to Washington, and fly by helicopter from there to Camp David, Md., for the weekend.

Fahey Backed By Lowry

John R. Lowry, 7th Ward Committeeman, today publicly announced his support of Tim R. Fahey for 7th Ward Commissioner.

"Apparently a letter bearing my signature has intimated that Diehl is connected with the Republican Alliance. The inference has no basis in fact. Since the time of Diehl's endorsement, I realized that regardless of his statements, his political associates, who have advised him during his campaign are now vigorously campaigning for the hand-picked 'Boyer candidates,'" Lowry said.

Third Student Has Fracture

A third student at William Penn Junior High School, Fairless Hills, has sustained a fracture in outdoor gym within the last two weeks.

Linda Palma, 12, of 129 Everturn Lane, Elderberry, Levittown, was admitted to Lower Bucks Hospital at 4:30 p.m. Thursday with a fracture of the right leg.

On May 6 Stephen Amoroso, 14, fractured his upper right thigh. Two days later Lester Wilt, 15, fractured his right arm.

George Bolge, principal of the junior high school, said today he was very upset by the accidents but assured parents that all students are carefully supervised during gym.

'Riot' Costs Woman $115

A Bristol Township woman, who "rioted", according to police, in a justice of the peace's office Thursday, was fined $115 yesterday on five counts of disorderly conduct.

Justice of the Peace Stephen P. Nieckoski also continued Mrs. Betty Gough, 50, of 638 Newportville Road, under bail for court action on the original charge of drunken driving.

Nieckoski said that three fines included in the total were 10 to replace a policeman's straw hat which Mr. Gough allegedly stomped under foot, $5 for a pair of sunglasses belonging to the officer, and $5 for some of Nieckoski's papers, reportedly torn up by Mrs. Gough.

The trouble occurred in Nieckoski's office, where Mrs. Gough had been taken by Bristol Township Patrolman James Dunn to be arraigned on drunk driving charge resulting from an accident on Route 413.

problem with his suit, he replied that he had not. "I had no trouble whatsoever in keeping the temperature down."

Thanks Crew

Later he talked to the enlisted men in the hangar deck where he again expressed his thanks to the crew and personally thanked the seven members of the underwater demolition crew who were assigned the job of recovering his capsule.

"When you are coming out of the blackout," he told his audience of over 1,000, "and are pulling a few G's and things are flaming about you and there is a big fireball behind you, it is a most comforting sound to hear those helicopters orbiting around you. Before I had my antennae out, a swimmer was knocking on the capsule asking me how I felt."

Cooper will be greeted in Honolulu by his wife Trudy, and their two teen-aged daughters.

The newest American astronaut told doctors who examined him Friday that he kept his thumbs tucked under his harness straps while he slept during his space voyage to prevent the accidental flipping of cabin switches.
